

Job advertisement:
Junior Researcher
(30 hours, from 1 September 2021, limited to 24 months)

The Austrian Foundation for Development Research (ÖFSE) is Austria's leading research and information centre on international development and development policy (<https://www.oefse.at/en/>). The foundation has been at the service of the interested public ever since its establishment in 1967.

ÖFSE is looking for a Junior Researcher to start on 1 September 2021 for a period of 24 months. The position is part of the current research project "Modelling Regulatory Change in Trade Impact Assessments".

Your tasks:

- Independent research work in the area of cost-benefit analysis of regulations, in particular in the area of health and/or ecology
- Preparation of background papers on evaluation methods in cooperation with the research team
- Organisation of and participation in project workshops
- Writing publications, especially in academic journals, participation in research conferences

Your profile:

- Completed degree (university or university of applied sciences) in economics or an equivalent study programme (diploma or master's degree)
- Very good general theoretical and empirical knowledge of economics as well as applied econometrics
- Documented interest in economic and political issues in the field of economic valuation methods and cost-benefit analyses, as well as international trade
- Knowledge and application of CGE modelling is an advantage
- Strong ability to cooperate in a team
- Excellent English and good German language skills
- Willingness to write a dissertation and to pursue a doctoral or PhD programme
- International experience and academic publications are an advantage

We offer:

- Employment to the extent of 30 hours (minimum salary: € 2.380,- gross per month (14x))
- Good working conditions in a collegial organisation and committed research team

ÖFSE pursues an anti-discriminatory employment policy and attaches great importance to equal opportunities and diversity. In case of equal qualifications, preference will be given to the female candidate.

For queries please contact:

Dr Werner Raza, ÖFSE Director

Phone: +43 1 3174010-101

Mail: w.raza@oefse.at

Please send your application (incl. letter of motivation, CV, references, at least one academic text) to:

Austrian Foundation for Development Research, Sensengasse 3, 1090 Vienna, Austria

Email: office@oefse.at

Deadline for applications: 9 July 2021, 24.00 hrs.